

The Department for Mongolian and Tibetan Studies would like to kindly invite you to the International Symposium on „Mongolian Responses to Globalisation Processes“, from the 15th to the 17th of January 2014 at the Gustav-Stresemann-Institut.

The event is designed as a workshop in order to foster lively discussions on issues and topics concerning contemporary Mongolia – including their historical backgrounds. Our primary goal is a productive exchange of ideas. We will focus on: processes of social, economic, political and cultural change within shifting global contexts and horizons, new orientations (partially caused by foreign/new influences), changing normative ideas (including new ideals, neo-traditional tendencies), as well as processes of ‘mongolisation’. As framework we will use the multiple and entangled relations between pre-socialist, socialist and post-socialist notions of globalisation.

Kind regards,

Prof. Dr. Ines Stolpe

Please note:

Due to limited spaces the event is open to invited guests only.

The venue

The Symposium will take place at
