

Call for Papers

Second German South Asia Day

28th–29th Oktober in Heidelberg

After the first German South Asia Day in Bonn in 2019 and a break due to the pandemic, the South Asia Institute of the University of Heidelberg will organise the second German South Asia Day on 28th and 29th October 2022. Both established and young scholars from all humanities and social sciences who deal with research topics of modern and contemporary South Asia are welcome.

To register a presentation, please send the title and abstract (approx. 300 words) with brief personal details to truong@sai.uni-heidelberg.de by 31st July 2022. We will then inform you by 15th August 2022 about the acceptance of the presentation, panel design, etc.

Papers can be held in German and English. Participation in the conference is free of charge. Unfortunately, subsidies for travel, accommodation and meals cannot be granted.

Organising team:

Prof. Dr. Hans Harder (University of Heidelberg)
Jun.-Prof. Dr. Carmen Brandt (University of Bonn)
Dr. Ira Sarma (University of Leipzig)

In cooperation with the Working Group Modern South Asia of the DGA
